It was basically just a reenactment, there was no live-feed (or as close to it as it could get) so it doesn't do the moon landing any justice, but it's pretty awesome to see how they did it in 1969. Having to re-produce it live is pretty amazing. ----- acct1771 It's absolutely stunning to see it in HD. To have been there at the time and not watched it, it's a strange feeling. ----- jedberg I wonder if this means that 4 is going to be released soon as well. WinX.DVD.Ripper.Platinum.5.9.2.Build.20100303 [ML] full version 6039. A: I suggest that you download the latest version of Ripper.Platinum.5.9.2.Build.20100303 and then extract the files in the zip file using WinRAR (or any other free unzip tool), and then install the "installer" that is inside the zip file. When the installer is running, you will have to choose to "run the installer" or "open the setup.exe file". Make sure you choose the second option, otherwise the installer will not finish properly (and you will not be able to use the program correctly). Notes: If you use the "open the setup.exe file" method to extract the Ripper.Platinum.5.9.2.Build.20100303.zip, you will need to download and run the needed installer again, since it is only partially installed. Title: WinX.DVD.Ripper.Platinum.5.9.2.Build.20100303 [ML] Size: 886.00 KB Rating: [Click on to download] Posted: January 4, 2010 After a break of several months from this project. I am back with more new WMA8 and FLAC audio decoders. This part is for FLAC audio playback. As previously seen these FLAC decoders are backed by a new 8 bit audio decoder, WMA8.This WMA8 audio decoder is based on the original WMA8 decoder written by Michael Goossen and has since been improved upon. WinX DVD Ripper Platinum 5.9.2 Build 20100303 contains WMA8 audio decoding support. The original WMA8 decoder was written in 2003 by Michael Goossen and can be found on Sourceforge. The FLAC audio decoder is based on libFLAC written by Francois Pinard and uses the faac codec as its backend. It also benefits from some of the new optimization implemented into the faac decoder since the 0.1.4 releases. - [Demo] WinX DVD Ripper Platinum 5.9.2 Build 20100303 - [Demo] WinX DVD Ripper Platinum 5.9.2 Build 20100303 Â· ML (0).
